

DIPA, s.r.o. was established on 13.1.2006 with its registration into the Commercial Register following the transformation of DANADA, i.p.a., which had been doing business as a sole proprietor since April 1992 in the field of engineering activities, project management, construction and technical supervision, budgeting and project calculations and other related activities. The company provides services classified under numbered code 74.20 - Architectural and Engineering Services and Related Technical Consulting Services and primarily:

- Engineering activities - securing construction and occupancy permits,
- Technical design studies and technical consulting before project design,
- Financial estimates for projects,
- Feasibility studies and environmental impact assessments,
- Technical expertise related to pricing out construction structures,
- Management services for construction and technical projects as client representation to ensure construction work matches construction plans,
- Inspection activities for construction projects,
- Completing progress reports and reports on work scheduling,
- Providing pricing estimates for various project phases,
- Elaborating bid conditions as the investor's representative,
- Support during negotiations,
- Bid analysis and assessment,
- Construction and technical supervision during construction,
- Verification of completed work and assistance during final turnover,
- Consulting on building maintenance, renovation, restoration and recycling issues.